Historical Society Set Up in County

The Fayette County Historical Society was launched auspiciously Monday night, at a public meeting of representative citizens held in Memorial Hall, and the society already has an enrollment of nearly 50 members.

The organization meeting follows a preliminary meeting held a few weeks ago, at which plans for the formal organization of the society were discussed.

Judge Rell G. Allen was temporary chairman and presided until the new president of the association was elected.

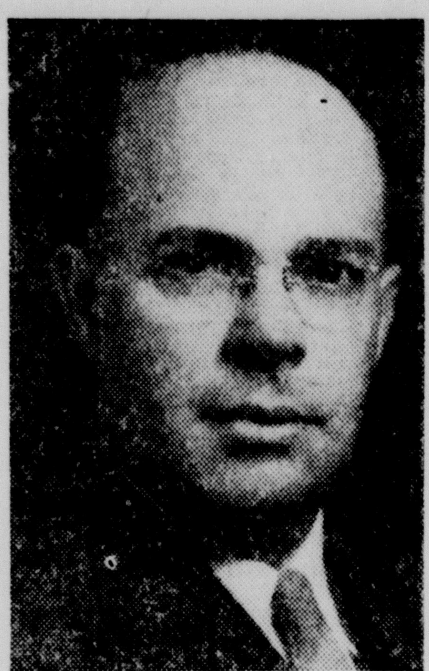

The formal organization took place after an interesting and inspiring address given by Erwin C. Zepp, director of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society.

Harold Craig was elected president; Miss Edith Gardner, vice-president; B. E. Kelley, secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Johnson, treasurer.

After these officers were elected, nominations for seven trustees were called for and the following board of trustees was elected: Howard Allen, city; John P. Case, city; Chester Zimmerman, of near Buena Vista; Valdo R. McCoy, Jamestown Road; Rell G. Allen, city; Mrs. B. E. Kelley, city.

and Robert Jefferson, Bloomingburg.

The new secretary voted to incorporate as a non-profit organization, and also adopted a constitution and by-laws.

President Craig was authorized to appoint the following five standing committees; membership, program, records and research, finances and press relations and these committees will be announced soon.

The constitution and by-laws were presented for consideration by B. E. Kelley, and after discussion and some minor changes, were adopted by the organization.

Under the constitution and by-laws, an annual meeting will be held in January each year; the board of directors meet every three months; the president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer form the executive committee, and the program committee may arrange for special sessions for the members and prospective members, with out-of-town talent on the programs which will bear on historical organizations and their work.

Officers of the society are accepting memberships until the membership committee is announced.

Zepp was introduced by B. E. Kelley, member of the Ohio State Archaeological Society who has known the director for many years. He stated that over a period of years he had known Zepp as a hardworking, energetic member of the staff who had worked his way

Campaign Tours Cross in Ohio, But No Meeting

Dewey Centers Fire On Foreign Policy Of Administration

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12—(AP)—The campaign routes of presidential rivals Harry S. Truman and Thomas E. Dewey met at Union Depot here this morning.

New York Governor Dewey, the Republican nominee, arrived aboard his special train at 3 A. M. and after a service interruption proceeded to Cincinnati. From there, the train headed for Louisville, Ky.

President Truman's train arrived from Akron about 4 A. M. and continued to Indianapolis after a 15-minute stop.

A special detail of ten Columbus policemen guarded the trains while they were in the station.

OHIO OUTLOOK

AKRON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Democratic hopes for victory in Ohio Nov. 2 were several notches higher today after President Truman's campaign trip.

Party leaders described the president's trip covering some 300 miles and traversing industrial and farm sections as "very successful."

The president's trip, which started at Cincinnati in the morning ended here late last night when he delivered one of the major speeches of his campaign.

More than 3,000 persons jammed the national guard armory and an overflow of more than 10,000 listened over a public address system. The meeting was preceded by a parade through the downtown section led by the president.

DEWEY OPENS FIRE

EN ROUTE WITH DEWEY TO LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 12—(AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey charged today that the bipartisan foreign policy has operated only when the Truman administration "has permitted it."

In his frankest public criticism of the president's handling of foreign affairs, the Republican presidential nominee said that if he is elected in November he will carry out a "vigorous, competent and" (Please turn to Page Two)

Tax Revision Urged By Steel Magnate

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—Industry needs revision of income tax regulations on depreciation to halt liquidation of investment, C. M. White, president of Republic Steel Corp., Cleveland, said today.

He told the Controllers Institute of America, meeting here, that "when the tax law and regulations recognized only the original cost of the plant and not the present value in the determination of current depreciation, the tax is not an income tax but an assessment on capital."

This, he said, if continued "will eventually wipe us out." White cited present construction costs for steel facilities which he said "are almost prohibitive because no return could possibly be earned on such new investments at present prices of steel."

Wedding Postponed Publicity Stunt?

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 12—(AP)—After four broken wedding dates in 48 hours, the congressman and his bride-elect are going to back off and try to get married again—later.

Rep. Richard Fielding Harless of Arizona and Meredith Howard, a one-time Folies girl, postponed their wedding "indefinitely" yesterday.

Their action came after a sequence of romantic mix-ups that only screen-writers deliberately plan.

Four times Richard and Meredith tried their best to say "I do," but each time the malicious God of love tossed a monkey wrench into the proceedings.

Indians' Return To Wild Welcome On Path of Roses

BY LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12—(AP)—Baseball happy Clevelanders staged the biggest and loudest demonstration in the city's history today as the world champion Indians were welcomed back from Boston.

The entire city let go with a bombardment of music, flowers, cheers and applause as the Indians were driven up historic Euclid Avenue from the terminal in public square to University Circle, a 10-mile route.

The avenue was strewn with roses and confetti, early morning traffic was tied in a happy, howling knot of humanity.

Traffic Commissioner John R. Sammon said it was the biggest celebration he could remember. He estimated the crowd that jammed into Public Square at 100,000 and said at least another 50,000 lined the street as the motorcade moved out the avenue.

Mayor Thomas A. Burke, Tribe Manager Lou Boudreau and his wife, Della, and club president Bill Veeck were seated in the first open car and drew the loudest cheers.

Sport-shirted Veeck gave his flashiest, widest grin as he ducked confetti, candy kisses and flowers. "It was never like this in Milwaukee," Veeck laughed. "This is terrific."

The handsome, dark-haired Boudreau drew the attention of women and bobby soxers. Shouts of "there's Lou!" sprang up all along the line and everybody strained their vocal chords to the limit.

On women carried a sign: "Boudreau for president and" (Please turn to Page Two)

Governor Assailed On Sale Tax Cut Plan

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12—(AP)—Frank J. Lausche resumed his campaign for Ohio governor today with a verbal dig at Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's sales tax reduction.

"The reduction secured by elimination of the sales tax on the first 40 cents of a purchase amounts to about $1.50 in twelve months for each person in the state," he said in a prepared text. He planned to speak in Fostoria, Findlay, Ottawa and Defiance.

"Sales tax revenues," he went on, "have increased by nearly $100,000,000 over what was collected during my administration. Yet this insignificant, paltry amount is being solemnly offered as an example of thrift and generosity."

"The relief was offered at a special session of the legislature which was hastily called, under the pretense of emergency. The emergency was not that of the people but was the emergency of the present state administration, facing an impending election."

Tenth Caesarian Sets Birth Record

TOLEDO, Oct. 12—(AP)—When Mrs. William Shriver, 37, gave birth to her 10th child by Caesarian operation here Saturday, it set a record in world medical history, her physician said yesterday.

Previous record of nine Caesarian births was established in Boston in 1933, he added. Mrs. Shriver's latest child was a four-pound ten-ounce daughter. Her other children, ranging in age from 17 to two years, all are living.

Radio Give-Away Scrap With Allen Flares Up

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—The running battle between radio comedian Fred Allen and radio give-aways flared anew today.

The American Broadcasting Co., and the producer of its super-giveaway, "Stop The Music," fired counter blasts to Fred Allen's statement that people who are called during give-away shows are notified in advance so they'll be sure to be by the telephone. They said it just isn't done on that program or the network's other prize shows.

Serious Comedy

Allen made his comment Sunday night in his second consecutive broadcast against give-aways. Portland Hoffa remarked that every person who is called on a give-away program "is always at home sitting by the telephone—waiting."

"I know," commented Allen, "I read in some paper the other day that people on lots of those give-away shows are called an hour or so before the program goes on the air to make sure they'll be home. So if you're not called before the program starts, you can't be called during the program."

Most of Allen's fire has been directed at "Stop The Music" which is on ABC Sunday night while he is on NBC. Charles C. Barry, ABC vice president in charge of programs, declared Allen's statement on advance-notice calls was emphatically not true so far as "Stop The Music" was concerned—nor any of the network's other shows.

"We start telephoning at about five minutes to eight to have the first call ready when the program goes on the air—and every call is made after eight except the first one," he asserted.

Mark Goodson, producer of "Stop The Music," explained further that the reason it appears there's always someone at home is that only completed call are put through to the program.

A spokesman said Allen's comment on advance-notice calls was (Please turn to Page Two)

Capt. Colin Kelly First Hero of War Returns—in Coffin

MADISON, Fla., Oct. 12—(AP)—Burial with full military honors will be accorded tomorrow to the body of Capt. Colin Kelly, the first acclaimed hero of the war with Japan.

The body, scheduled to arrive home by train at 2 P. M. (EST) today, will be escorted by veteran organizations to the Madison County Court House where it will lie in state with a guard of honor until Wednesday afternoon.

An honor guard of 24 men of the 14th Air Force and a chaplain from MacDill Field will participate in the funeral while army planes circle overhead.

Kelly was killed when his plane crashed on the return from a bombing mission against the Japanese battleship Haruna off Manila three days after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Berlin Blockade To Stay Until Money Changed

Plans To Speed UN Action Take Form As Marshall Returns

BERLIN, Oct. 12—(AP)—The Russians declared through their official newspaper today that the blockade of Berlin will remain until the Western Powers withdraw their currency from circulation in the city.

RUSSIAN OFFER

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Soviet Russia, faced with a stiffening American attitude, offered today to "put our cards on the table" in the east-west dispute over arms reduction proposals.

Vishinsky said Russia would provide full information on her arms and armed forces if the United Nations adopted the Soviet proposal for an immediate one-third cut in big five armaments.

The Soviet military administration's newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, said this was a "pre-requisite for the lifting of traffic restrictions." Apparently this reflected the official Soviet attitude on mediation efforts in Paris by the six security council nations who are trying to end the east-west deadlock over Berlin.

"Actually there is no blockade of Berlin. However, lifting of the traffic restrictions could easily take place if at the same time the illegally introduced B-mark were withdrawn from circulation," the paper said.

The Russians announced once again that gunnery drills and parachute jumping will be held in the airlift corridors and there will be Soviet flying drills over Berlin. The Western Powers have protested that these drills, being announced daily now by the Russians, violated four-power safety agreements.

The British military government protested yesterday that one Russian Yak fighter stunted dangerously close to a British airlift transport about 75 miles northwest of Berlin near Perleberg.

UN ACTION PLANS

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined today in a move to speed up security council action on the Berlin crisis.

This coincided with Secretary of State Marshall's return by air from Washington talks with President Truman.

The three big Western Powers, despairing of mediation efforts by the so-called "little six" on the United Nations security council, are drafting a resolution for firm action to lift the Berlin blockade, Western sources said.

Marshall did not appear at the UN assembly headquarters immediately on his arrival in Paris, but he took over again as behind-the-scenes director of American policy in the Berlin dispute.

U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin, meanwhile, told the U.N. assembly's political committee that "wreck and destroy" has become the Soviet battle cry in the world today. He cited a number of quotations which he said indicated (Please turn to Page Two)

Truman Supported By Harold Ickes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Harold L. Ickes is backing President Truman in next month's election.

The 74-year-old New Dealer who broke with Mr. Truman in February, 1946, after 13 years' service as secretary of the interior, rejoined the Democratic ranks yesterday.

Although he said he "would welcome an opportunity to vote for someone else," Ickes gave conservation of the nation's natural resources as the deciding factor in his choice of presidential candidates.

"As between Thomas Elusive Dewey, the candidate in sneakers," Ickes said in a statement, "I prefer to support Mr. Truman, who is straightforward and sincere, if at times more unpredictable than I would wish."

Ask Tom Jones and Kermit Knox of Jeffersonville. They could give you an interesting story.

But why go to that trouble? I can give it to you as it appeared in "The Blood Horse," a magazine dedicated to fine horses as the name implies. Tom and Kermit probably could give you some interesting embellishments, however.

Here's the item that appeared in "The Blood Horse."

LAST HIP. When T. A. Jones and K. K. Knox, of Jeffersonville, Ohio, consigned two yearlings to the Keeneland Fall Sales of this year they made a request: "Please do not put these in last session. Sold last horse on last night last year." Charles Hemstead of Toronto, waited around for the last horse (a yearling fully by Talked About or Benagi—Zee Possum), bought her for $650, named her Last Hip. In her first start she finished last. But she has won since.

Tom and Kermit, both of whom have a fancy for the runners, started a Thoroughbred nursery near Jeffersonville a few years ago. It was small, but they got good foundation stock in their brood mares and selected good sires. As I recall, their first consignment of three yearlings and a broodmare brought more than $18,000. And, they have been doing all right ever since.

Harold W. Lady, the son of Dr. and Mrs. George Lady, who formerly lived here, has been called on by Dr. Syngman Rhee, Korea's first president, for consultations with him and his ministers on their country's economic problems and help them set up a monetary system.

Lady has had wide experience in government economics and has been granted a leave of absence from his government position while in Korea.

He made the trip by plane last week, according to word just received from friends in the nation's capital.

Dr. and Mrs. Lady, his parents, have been residents of Washington, D. C., for many years, but are remembered by many of the older generations here.

Farm Program Not Cut Despite Record Crops

Further Decline in Prices Is Forecast With Market Already Down 5 Percent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—With a record crop volume practically assured for this year, farmers already are turning their attention to planting for another big output in 1949.

The agriculture department reported this in a harvest-time statement estimating this year's total crop production will exceed the 1946 record by 8 percent.

Favorable weather in September virtually nailed down earlier forecasts that 1948 production will top all others.

Fall plowing, field preparation and seeding of such fall-sown grains as winter wheat, rye and oats is progressing seasonally, the department said.

This year's record corn crop will turn out to be larger than the department had previously predicted if its latest estimate is borne out. Yesterday's report put the crop at 3,567,955,000 bushels—a boost of about 39,000,000 bushels from the September forecast.

Surpassing the 1946 record by 10 percent, the new corn crop opens the way for a big boost in production of meats, dairy and poultry products. Consumers should feel the benefits in the form of lower prices by late 1949, officials said.

With farm prices in general now down about five percent from the January peak, an agriculture department economist said today a further drop of 15 percent may come by the end of 1949—if peace prospects brighten.

O. C. Stine, assistant chief of the bureau of agriculture economics, told a conference of several hundred state agricultural college economists prices will hold so long as "the possibility of active warfare hangs in the balance."

The department estimated yesterday that 3,220,000,000 bushels of corn will be harvested as grain, the balance going into silage and other feed materials. This would be 50 percent more than was harvested last year, when the crop was extremely short due to dry weather.

Aiding corn in establishing a production record this season were record out turns of soybeans, peanuts, pecans and cranberries; near-record crops of wheat, oats, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grain, dry beans, and citrus fruits, and above average crops of cotton, barley, all hay, potatoes, tobacco, sugar cane, sugar beets, hops, peaches, cherries, and apricots.

Three Escape Jail At Ironton And Elude Trap Set by Police

IRONTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Three fugitives from the Lawrence County jail apparently eluded local and state police today after a deputy was wounded and three other prisoners were captured.

The three gave up without a fight and returned to their cells after they were cornered in an abandoned nail mill. Sheriff Milton Rucker said the three still out apparently slipped out of the mill.

Meanwhile, city police, deputies and state patrolmen guarded surrounding roads in search of the trio, who broke out of the jail last night.

Their victim, Deputy Homer Secrist, 42, was blackjacked and then shot in the back in the break at 10:20 P. M. last night. He was reported in fair condition at the Ironton Hospital.

Secrist said he was shot by Edgar Blumfield, 19, who was being held on a charge of assault to rob, and who was still at large. (Please turn to Page Twelve)

'Sis' Partridge To Lose Leg

Chance of Recovery After Operation

Mrs. Clara (Sis) Partridge's left leg was to be amputated Tuesday afternoon in order to save her life.

Word came to Mrs. Herbert Cockerill, Fayette County Relief Director Tuesday morning that "Sis" could not keep her leg and live. Frank Partridge, her husband was there and agreed that the operation should be performed, it was said.

Mrs. Partridge's daughter, Lulu, and Mary Seymore, a friend, left Tuesday morning for Columbus to give their blood in transfusions that may be needed.

"Sis" suffered a broken leg and possible serious internal and head injuries at the hands of a hit-skip driver Saturday at about 10:20 P. M. while she was walking with two companions along the Circleville Pike near the "flowing well". The companions, her husband, Frank, and a friend, James Morrow were uninjured.

Mt. Carmel Hospital officials said she would not live unless her leg was amputated. With her leg amputated, she was given a chance for recovery.

Emergency treatment was given at Dr. C. G. Hayes' office Saturday night after which "Sis" was rushed to Mt. Carmel Hospital.

Sheriff Orland Hays and his deputies were still searching Tuesday for the hit-skip driver.

People literally hung out the windows of office buildings and thousands of balloons floated down from many of the taller structures. One woman ran out and presented Mrs. Boudreau with a bouquet of a dozen American beauty roses and other spectators showered packages of gifts on the Boudreaus and Veck as they rode out the avenue.

Business was at a standstill and school children forgot their studies and classrooms. Parochial school children had the day off in observance of Columbus Day and took full advantage of it. Public schools were not closed officially but teachers and principals didn't interfere with any pupils who wanted to see the parade.

Bearden, third baseman Ken Keitner and pitcher Satchell Paige flew home last night and already were on hand for the celebration. Paige created quite a sensation on the trip by eating three dinners. After his third tray was removed and the hostess asked if he wanted another, Satch replied:

"No, ma'am, that's all. It's not that I'm full. I'm just tired of eating."

Historical Society

Zepp expressed his pleasure in being present for the organization meeting of the society in Fayette County, and commended those present for their interest in preserving the heritage of the county for future generations.

Zepp presented a map of the state, showing the large number of county historical societies already in existence, and had designated those most active.

He pledged the full support of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society in doing everything possible for the Fayette County Historical Society at any time, including loan exhibits; speakers and other means of assistance.

Zepp urged the society to preserve the history, papers, letters, documents, etc., of the community and to interest as many citizens as possible in the importance of preserving historic documents and other artifacts.

He advocated moving slowly in developing the organization and to look forward to having a home for the society when it is needed to house the records, documents, and historical material generally that reflects the social, religious, political, industrial and educational progress of the community.

He spoke of what other societies are doing, and gave much interesting and helpful material to guide those in charge of the newly formed society here. He stated that such a society will do much toward moulding the community closer together, and keeping up interest in the worth while things of the community, as well as preserve for future generations the things that are vital in the history and development of the county.

The director recommended that the society accept only collections or articles that have real historic data of the community, and not collect oddities from foreign countries and elsewhere which have no bearing on the history of the county.

At the conclusion of his address Zepp answered many questions asked by those present.

In accepting the presidency, Craig pledged his best efforts to building the society, and to work on the theory of building slowly but carefully and surely.

Membership tickets were ready and at the conclusion of the meeting the enrollment of members got under way.

In an address prepared for delivery in Louisville, Ky., at 11:45 A. M. (Eastern Standard Time) Dewey assailed what he called the clumsiness, the weakness and the wobbling of the present administration in handling foreign affairs.

The New York governor dispelled any doubt that may have existed that he personally condemns—although he declined to say so publicly—President Truman's abandoned plan to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow to negotiate with Premier Stalin.

He said the administration's lack of success in winning the peace, in part, had been due to its "failure to consult the Republicans before making sudden and vital policy commitments."

These have almost invariably got the country deeper into trouble," he added.

President Truman sought today to rally midwestern industrial voters behind his full-scale championship of the "New Deal" which he said Gov. Thomas E. Dewey hopes to "destroy."

Shifting his campaign strategy, Mr. Truman made his Republican rival for the presidency the personal target of an increasing number of attacks as he swung into Indiana and Illinois on a heavy speaking schedule.

Not once did he call Governor Dewey by name, but at Willard, Ohio, yesterday, the president said "not a single, solitary man or woman in the United States" has been able to find out where "the Republican candidate stands" on the issues of the campaign.

Jack Kroll, director of the CIO-political action committee, campaigning with the president, told the same crowd only two Republicans ever cared about the people's welfare, he said:

"One of them was Teddy Roosevelt and they threw him out of the party. The other was Abraham Lincoln—and he was shot by a Dixiecrat."

As for the president, he proposed an eight-point program to build "a better way of life" on the foundation of the "New Deal." It embraced repeal of the Taft-Hartley act, increasing the minimum wage extending social security to new groups with a 50 percent increase in benefits, action "at once" on high prices and other proposals rejected by Congress.

Mr. Truman speaks today at 9 A. M. (EST) at Richmond, Ind., where former Gov. Henry F. Schriever boards his special train with a party of Democratic officials.

Ohio Physician Now Faces Prison

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12—(AP)—Federal agents probably will take Dr. Arnold H. Landsborough of Garrettsville, O. into custody soon and put him in prison, the Bureau of Narcotics reported today.

That interpretation of a U. S. Supreme Court refusal to consider Dr. Landsborough's appeal of a narcotics conviction was made by R. J. Ripberger, agent-in-charge of the federal bureau.

The Garrettsville doctor last year was sentenced to a 15-month term in prison after he was convicted in federal court on a charge of purchasing morphine tablets not in the original stamped package. Pending his appeal, he had been free on bond.

Merit Pay Raises Curbed by Law, Too

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Employers who grant merit pay raises without the consent of the union representing their workers may run afoul of the labor laws.

This is the effect of the supreme court's refusal to change a lower court ruling that merit pay is part of the compulsory collective bargaining process. The high court declined yesterday to hear an employer's appeal.

So the decision of the sixth circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati stands. Under its broad terms any employer violating the principle—that a bargaining union must have a voice in merit raises—runs the chance of being held guilty of committing an unfair labor practice.

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

The United States is beginning to wake up to the fact that one of Communism's productive fields of labor is the public school and university, where all too often the young crusading mind may be captivated by the specious red promises of a Utopian world.

Further proof of this awakening is found in the action of the Baltimore school board in upholding its superintendent in dismissing Mrs. Regina Frankfeld as a teacher because she is a Communist. Mrs. Frankfeld, whose husband Philip is head of the Maryland-District of Columbia Communist party, told the board after the decision.

"I am a member of the Communist party. I admit it. I am proud of it. Nobody will question my loyalty."

Before the board voted on the question, President Roszel C. Thomsen said:

"No doubt Mrs. Frankfeld is a skillful teacher. The more skillful she is, the better she can serve world Communism. No one who supports Communism can be a proper person to teach in our schools."

With that let's drop Mrs. Frankfeld and consider in general terms the question of Communism in our schools. How great is the threat?

There is an old saying that human nature can't be changed—a fine sounding axiom which is less than half a truth. Human nature can in major degree be changed, and the way to do it is to catch your subjects young. Hitler demonstrated that to the N-T-H degree by the manner in which he took over the children and youth of Germany and changed them into willing slaves of his barbaric regime. He did that in the brief six years between the date he came to power in 1933 and the launching of the world war in '39.

I spent considerable time in Germany just before the war, and the youth movement was one of the most remarkable developments. The teen agers of both sexes were magnificent specimens physically, but the boys were imbued with the idea of ruthless aggression and the girls had been taught that it was their duty to have children, out of wedlock if necessary, to provide soldiers for the Reich.

How did Hitler do it? By compelling the teaching of Nazism in the schools and by organizing youth movements in which all young folk had to participate. Clergymen and others who tried to combat were sent to concentration camps.

Somebody has said that youth always is in a state of rebellion against established things—always is ready to adventure with new ideas. Hitler took advantage of that. He staged a great show, with marching troops and flying banners. He held out promises of a wonderful new world. And German youth fell for it—many of the older people, for that matter.

Broadly speaking those are the tactics being employed by Communism. As a matter of fact, it seems highly probable that Hitler got his ideas about training youth from the Redism. One of the major points in both systems was to destroy belief in religion, so as to make way for evil beliefs.

The under-cover spreading of Communist doctrines in American schools is much more widespread than the average person realizes. It is being done so subtly that in most cases school authorities don't

Columbus Needed

novelty in a Latin history of the discovery.

The first man to propose that our continent be called "America" was Martin Waldseemüller, according to experts at the library of Congress. Waldseemüller, a native of Freiburg, Germany, made the suggestion in a small book, "Cosmographie Introductio."

This book contains an account of the voyages of the Italian navigator Amerigo Vespucci (Americus Vesputius is the Latinized version commonly used by contemporary historians), and credits him with the discovery. Waldseemüller wrote it in 1507 while he was a professor at St. Die, in Lorraine.

Waldseemüller probably had heard practically nothing of Columbus' voyages, the first of which occurred before Vesputius' initial trip to the west.

Columbus wrote about his voyages, of course, but he was no great shakes as a literary man (again according to the Congressional library scholars), and his work was little known in northern Europe for many years after his discovery.

Vesputius, on the other hand, had a considerable literary reputation. In any case, it seems, the scholars of Italy were esteemed more highly than those of Spain among the scholars of the north.

"If Columbus had had a good press agent, the scholars up north would never have made the mistake of thinking Vesputius discovered America," said one of the library experts, "and the continent might have been called Columbia."

This is a translation of the Waldseemüller passage in which our land first got its name:

"But now that those parts have been more extensively examined and another fourth part has been discovered by Americus Vesputius (as will be seen in the Sequel), I do not see why we should rightly refuse to name it America, namely the land of Amerigen or America, after its discoverer Americus, a man of sagacious mind, since both Europe and Asia took their names from women."

Nationalization Of Steel Opposed

LONDON—(AP)—Opponents of socialization are organizing a defense fund to campaign against government plan to nationalize Britain's iron and steel industry. Alfred Edwards, member of Parliament, is organizing the campaign. He was expelled from the Labor Party last spring after he publicly criticized iron and steel nationalization, one of the projects the government hopes to accomplish before the 1950 general elections.

The defense fund plans to conduct its campaign through public meetings, publications and a film of steel showing how the industry has reached a high rate of production under private enterprise.

Television Talk

Much "Television Talk" may be seen in our newspapers and magazines these days without providing any real enlightenment to the public's enthusiastic interest. We hope this article may be of help to you.

1. Many people feel that television broadcasts soon will cover greater distances. This is very unlikely. The present short range, about 50 miles, is due to frequencies being used; not due to the fact that television is new.

2. There is no great improvement in existing television receivers in sight. This is true for the following reasons: Receivers within range of broadcasting stations are now providing splendid pictures. Color television is many years away. Manufacturers are now selling their present models as fast as they are produced.

3. The recent action by the F. C. C. in declaring a six months halt in the licensing of television broadcasting stations will not technically affect the art of television. That is, present receivers and transmitter methods will not be changed or outmoded. This action was prompted by the condition existing in the thickly populated east coast region where too many stations were applying for permits. The FCC must set up standards for the proper channel allocations in these regions to prevent interference between stations. Stations under construction, such as in Columbus and Dayton, are not affected by the moratorium and should be on the air in a few months.

Terms of Ohio Congressmen Getting Longer on Average

BY FRED J. ZUSY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—

Ohio congressmen, most of whom expect to be reelected next month, already have served longer, on the average, than their predecessors and members of the House from most other states.

A survey shows that the 23 Ohioans now in the House average 9.52 years of service.

The library of Congress estimates the average term of a Congressman at 5.28 years in the 10 year period ending in 1944.

The Ohio average has increased considerably since the turn of the century. In 1924 it was 6.27 years. In 1900 it was 5.04.

Back in 1880, it was 3.25. So the trend continuously has been upward.

Averages of the delegations from all other states are not available. In Michigan, however, it has been

Rep. Crosser, Cleveland Democrat, holds the longest service record in the Ohio delegation. He is now in his 32nd year in the House. Rep. Jenkins, Iron-ton Republican, ranks next with 24 years. Rep. Hess, Cincinnati Republican, is third with 18 years. Ten Ohioans have been in the House eight or more years and six have served six years.

In 1924 Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland and Nicholas Longworth, Cincinnati, each then with 20 years of service, headed the list.

C. H. Grosvenor of Athens, with 16 years, topped the list in the 56th Congress in 1900.

Overconfidence Could Be A Deciding Factor

If any person should attempt to judge the result of the coming November election by openly expressed sentiment to be found in Fayette County, it would seem to be an overwhelming victory for Dewey over Truman. In fact it would appear like a Republican landslide providing no unlooked for incident occurs. However, most political observers know how uncertain such things can be; also that mass opinion in one section of the country may be quite different than in some other parts and that the actual voting in certain sectors is much easier to judge than in other parts.

Many of the political commentators and various other election prophets are going almost "all out" in their predictions of a Dewey victory and many say that the American voters already have made up their minds as to how they will cast their ballots in November; that the election practically is all over but the counting of votes.

While this is pleasing to the ardent supporters of the Republican candidate there is one factor, the polls being conducted in many places, which continues to show a very substantial number of undecided voters or at least those who are not telling. This element, under certain conditions, could swing the result, if all voted, in either direction.

Any follower of horse-racing will say that a race is never over until the finish line has been crossed. The same wisdom applies to elections. That probably is why the candidates, ignoring the opinions of the prophets, continue to campaign vigorously.

There is a thought in this for the individual voter, too. On rare occasions, an election may be won by the candidate who is able to sway the most votes at the last minute. Or it may be lost by a goodly percentage of voters who, at the last minute, do not take the trouble to go to the polls.

This is one of the reasons that Republican leaders are exhorting their followers against over-confidence, a thing that has lost many an election as well as many a game in sport, and sometimes even business deals.

Persistence

Columbus Day has a place in the American holiday calendar as a memorial to persistence. Columbus was fettered by the unbelief of his colleagues, the jeers of many who could have helped him, and the quaking lack of faith of those who sailed under his orders. Legend has it that he and he alone furnished the courage and confidence to drive his expedition forward into the New World when all others in the party had abandoned hope not only for success but for survival.

Actually the same thing has been true of most significant explorations, discoveries, inventions, and other worthwhile pieces of work. Edison failed time and time again before he made an incandescent lamp that worked, and his alone was the driving force that carried the experiments to success. Marie Curie all but broke her heart against the baffling riddle of radio-activity, but finally she found radium because she just wouldn't quit looking for it.

Nothing that is important comes easily. The great works of the world are wrought by those who, like Columbus, cannot be swayed from their purpose. Men with less strength often turn back when the successful end of a quest lies but an hour away.

Economists agree that there is too much inflation, but as to their own prices most people evidently want to go right on inflating.

Some listeners have been disappointed on learning that television is not a device through which they can talk back to their radios.

A Story About Me by Myself

By Hal Boyle

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Do you ever think about the story of me?

Or is our mutual adventure confined to the story of you?

Well, offhand I think your story is more interesting than mine. I really don't have much to tell. It may be a sad thing to admit that another man's journey through life is more interesting than my own—but that is how I feel.

I feel that most of the people who read and think about what I write must have had more trouble than I have—certainly they write me nice letters which show they have more courage to face their problems than I probably have.

But a newspaper publisher—one of the men who say whether I do or don't get into print—suggested that after five years of this business I should explain who and what I am.

So here is me. I am a medium-sized, middle-aged balding man with an ineffectual smile of good will. I haven't the hypocrisy to believe that anybody ought to buy a cheap crystal ball and be a pundit on what lies ahead. Nor do I tell that I have emphasized enough what I see in my own crystal ball—that if courage and loyalty don't lie ahead, then neither does America.

I was born Feb. 21, 1911, of an immigrant mother who has been the biggest influence in my off-key career. She was an Irish girl who took the Statue of Liberty seriously. She had only a third-grade education. She had five children and educated herself by reading the Kansas City Star, but she thought I should know more than they print in a family newspaper. So she backed me through the University of Missouri.

It was a good university, but I entered it with the feeling that I knew more about life than they could teach me there.

Sixteen years later I still have the same opinion. I learned more from my father and mother than I did from the university. I learned from the university solely the discipline of scholarship. This was worthwhile only so far as it taught me a technique of how to open books and gather what they held.

What my parents taught I think was more valuable—how to open the human heart of a friend and keep the humility to understand it.

The hardest period of my life was the adolescent time which people joke of as puppy love. I survived this misunderstood wilderness of the human soul, and am happily married—unhappily without children, whom I love.

I have been lucky enough to come through a major world war unscathed—but I think that is completely unimportant. Some things you can't trade on all the way, even in this world.

The one thing I can't forgive is the failure of people born to this country to appreciate it offers, and which my mother came here to find—and found motherhood instead, a strange and limited freedom in every land.

As for the rest, in war or peace, I still live on the consolation I was reared by—that is better to be poor and have fun than it is to be rich and bored. I was taught that getting it was more fun than having it. And I was taught right.

This is the tale of me.

Atom Bomb and Oriental Tricks

By George E. Sokolsky

The Russian proposal concerning the a-bomb is, as Warren Austin said, an oriental trick, for while it gives the appearance of a change of attitude, it is precisely the same old stand that Gromyko took. The Russian wants the United States to destroy its stockpile of bombs, to give up the bomb as a weapon—and he offers nothing in return. For while he appears to agree to inspection, he puts the entire business under the security council where the veto is the weapon of frustration.

It is necessary to remind the reader that when Bernard M. Baruch took over the negotiations concerning the bomb in the United Nations, this country had, to all intents and purposes, given the bomb away. At Potsdam, that was the Russian understanding. The state department jumped the gun on the negotiations, the Acheson-Lilienthal report being a "give-away" document. Dean Acheson, in the state department, accepting Soviet inevitability as a creed, seemed so sure that the Russians could not be stopped. An attempt was even made to attach Alger Hiss to Baruch.

All this the venerable gentleman took in his stride. With one hand tied behind his back, with the "give-away" Acheson-Lilienthal report already issued, with left-wing scientists led by no less a personality than Albert Einstein conducting a propaganda campaign against him and his formula, his task was to regain American authority over an American creation. This he accomplished with unimaginable skill. His formula may be simplified into three points:

1. Universal control of all matters related to uranium fission and the atom bomb by the United States;
2. Universal inspection and report;
3. The veto shall not be made applicable to this subject.

It is the third point that is the most important. It is precisely on this point that Mr. Vishinsky expects memories to be short. He holds up the word, "inspection," and hopes that no one remembers about the veto—but it is the veto that is the crux of the matter. I here quote Baruch's statement of July 12, 1946:

"Let me make it so clear that he who runs may read that in advancing this program we do not attack the whole system of veto agreed upon at the foundation of the United Nations in San Francisco last year. The words of the United States proposals dealing with this point, were:

"I want to make it very plain that I am concerned here with the veto power only as it affects this particular problem (atomic energy). There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

"I digress here to remind all of us that when the United Nations was founded the atomic bomb was unknown. Therefore, it is apparent that the processes set up in the charter did not -- could not -- deal with this pregnant subject."

"I take it that I need not labor the point of punishment. It is obvious that an offender should be punished for doing wrong in judgment of his own guilt."

"The success of the commission in dealing with this subject will be the key note of our generation. It will mean world protection or world destruction. There is no time for delay or debate or technical quibbles. Once criminal violation of the code is proven—immediate and condign punishment must follow."

This is the point that Vishinsky catches and without it the so-called Russian compromise is meaningless. This provision concerning the veto, Baruch reiterated in a speech before freedom house on October 8, 1946, in which he covered the ground most fully. In that speech he said:

"Provision that no nation which has accepted the international control treaty can be protected from punishment for violation of its terms through use of a veto whether cast by the violating state or by any other nation."

"To avoid misunderstanding, I quote from our original declaration:

"My country is ready to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject of course to our constitutional progresses and to an adequate system of control becoming fully effective, as we finally work it out." By "We," I mean all participating nations."

Diet and Health

Many Symptoms Of Heart Trouble

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people whose hearts are entirely normal and who are physically capable of working, nonetheless experience symptoms usually associated with heart disturbance. These may include such things as faintness, pounding of the heart, shortness of breath, pain over the heart, and fear of sudden death.

Faintness and weakness, so likely to be thought of as due to a weak heart, are, in reality, seldom due to heart trouble. Pain over the heart is also much more commonly due to less serious conditions than heart disease.

Heart Condition

There is a heart condition known as angina pectoris in which there is pain below the left nipple. The pain in the condition not due to heart disease, is also located below the left nipple and may last for a few minutes, hours, or days. It has no relation to exercise. Thus, exercise does not produce it or make it worse. Rest will not make it better. On the other hand, the pain of angina pectoris is brought on by exercise, and rest does relieve the difficulty.

The symptoms of heart disturbance in persons who do not have actual heart disease are due to anxiety or worry. Hence, the treatment must consist of reassuring the patient and an attempt to relieve the symptoms. An effort must be made to explain to the patient just why the symptoms have developed. For example, a person may have symptoms on his first flight in an airplane. If the relationship between the worry and the flight and the heart symptoms is explained to the patient, no further attacks are likely to occur.

Other Methods

The other method of treatment consists of rearranging the patient's surroundings or environment, which includes his way of living. It may be necessary to reduce the working hours and to give more time to vacation. There may be some problem in the home which aggravates the symptoms, and this of course must be corrected.

Drugs are not of a great deal of value in these cases, although sedatives or quieting preparations may be used for a time until the patient's fear and anxiety are overcome.

Of course, the heart is such an important organ that no chances should be taken with it. This means that in all instances where symptoms of heart disease are present, there is a need for a thorough study to make sure that actual damage to the heart has not occurred. This includes an X-ray of the heart, as well as an electrocardiogram or a tracing of the heart beat. If no evidence of heart damage is found, then treatment along the lines suggested may be carried out.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. T.: What causes a heartburn?
Answer: Heartburn comes from many causes, such as gall-bladder disease, ulcer of the stomach, or intestine, chronic constipation, and appendicitis.

Eating too rapidly or eating wrong foods will also produce this condition.

Autographed Leg Vet's War Trophy

SYDNEY, Australia.—(AP)—The wooden leg of an Australian airman is likely to end up in the Australian War Memorial at Canberra. The leg belongs to Steve Stephens of Perth.

Stephens lost his left leg in a car accident when he was three. In spite of his handicap and in the face of many rejections, he won his way into the Royal Australian Air Force and served two years in the United Kingdom as a bomber rear gunner. His wooden leg, of Japanese oak, is carved all over with the names and initials of airmen who served with him.

Now 26, Stephens is a fine athlete in spite of the loss of his leg. He has cleared 4 ft. 9 in. in the high jump, run the 100 yards in 17 seconds, ridden a mile on the cycle track in three minutes, and covered the hilly 60 miles between Perth, Western Australia's capital, and Northam in 4½ hours. Stephens also dances well.

Most adults cannot remember things that happened before they were four or five.

Czechs and Poles Unify Service

WARSAW, Poland.—(AP)—Poland and Czechoslovakia, already working hand-in-hand in every branch of economic and industrial recovery, are now planning to unify and expand their communications facilities.

One big project planned is the establishment of direct tele-communications system between Szczecin (Stettin) on the Oder river leading into the Baltic sea, and Czechoslovakia, since Poland has assigned to the Czechoslovaks a customs duty-free zone in the Szczecin port.

Poles and Czechs also contemplate setting up a big uniform tele-communications network in the Silesian-Moravian basin. They also are to build a new transit telephone cable between Warsaw and Prague via Keszyc in southern Poland.

Harvest Report Ups Rations in Czechoslovakia

Increase Ordered
As People Grumbling
About Scarce Food

By A. I. Goldberg
PRAGUE.—(AP)—On the heels of a good harvest report, the Czechoslovak government has promised a bigger food basket for its people.

Increases in rations of flour, edible fats, potatoes were announced by Premier Antonin Zapotocky, retroactive to September 1. As of November 1, the sugar ration will be increased about seven-tenths of a pound and Czechoslovaks will get 3.3 pounds a month.

The premier said the harvest had helped in edible cereals but not in the meat line.

The announcement came as Czechs and Slovaks were grumbling about their skimpy food because there were rumors cereals and fats, including butter, were being sent to Germany. These were hotly denied by both Zapotocky and his food minister, Mrs. Ludmila Jankovcova.

"We'll give a year's ration tickets for heavy workers to anyone who can prove we're sending such food to Germany," Mrs. Jankovcova said in a radio broadcast just before the ration increase was announced.

The ration announcement came just ahead of the searching self-criticism in store for Communist party members, between now and December 31. The Communists were told by their party leaders that their fitness both for their membership in the party and for holding jobs was at stake in the three-months survey.

The government also hopes to reach by October 28—Czechoslovakia's Independence Day—the targets of the two-year plan scheduled to end December 31, when a new five-year plan, geared to Russia's economic and trade treaty, is to begin.

Although some August figures were above the two-year plan targets, it appeared that in many fields the Czechoslovaks could not possibly speed up their output to accomplish the program by October 28.

Absenteeism, disgruntlement over food, and some rebellion over treatment of Sekol members all showed up in the lowered production in August.

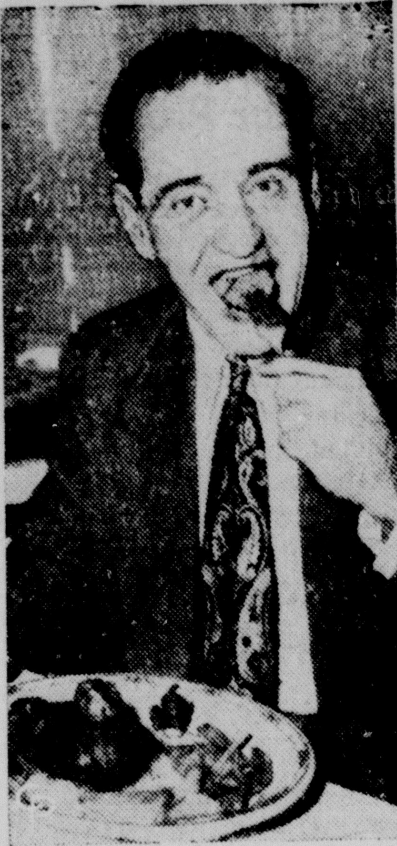

It was remarked that the premier announced that the food increase covered "all working people, whether employed in factories, offices or in any other employment, as well as to all wives of employed persons with at least one child."

Further, the premier said, 300,000 tons of wheat will be brought abroad to start a reserve for next year, no matter how good this year's harvest is. He promised that if there is any surplus over the basic ration, food may be sold at higher prices outside the ration.

The new rations give the public 26.4 pounds of potatoes a month instead of 17.6 pounds; 28.6 pounds of bread a month instead of 23 pounds for persons over 20 years of age; and 13.2 pounds of bread a month for children up to six, instead of 12 pounds.

One indication of how well Czechoslovakia has recovered from last year's drought is that early potatoes were exported to the Soviet and the American zones of Germany and to Switzerland, and there is now a surplus. Last year Czechoslovakia had to import potatoes.

'Sweet Look Girls' Win Their Boys

By BETTY CLARKE

There is one sure way to make sure you will snare some weekend dates to college dances this fall: develop the "sweet" look.

You don't have to be beautiful or even pretty to win a date with that man. Clear skin, sparkling eyes and a zest for living will speak for themselves.

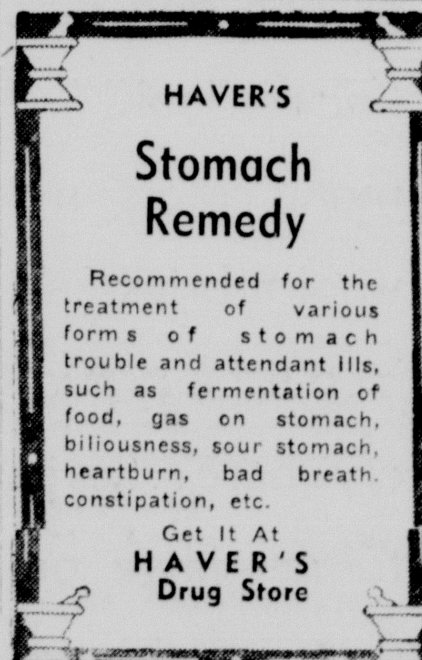

Young men like their girls to look sweet. This means more of a make-down than a make-up. Of course your hair will be clean, skin free of blemishes, clothes neatly pressed. But for goodness sakes don't try to hide everything with a thick layer of foundation cream, powder and mascara.

Do most of your beautifying during the week when you can slather yourself with cream. If that's what you need. At night, cleanse your face and neck with cream or with a beauty lotion. Tissue off your cleanser and wash carefully with soap, water and a good complexion brush. Apply skin freshener, diluted on a pad moistened with cold water. Pat briskly to help stimulate circulation.

You may not even need any more than a soap-and-water cleansing. But be your own judge in the matter.

When you go away for your weekend, pack a few simple cosmetics. Include a feather light foundation cream as a base for your powder on the evening of the big dance. Be sure to cover your neck as well as your face with the foundation and powder.

Choose your lipstick with care. A debutante makeup always is applied to achieve the utmost in naturalness.

Rights To Throne Is Remote For Princess Elizabeth's Baby

By ED L. CAMPBELL
LONDON—Princess Elizabeth's baby will have to go back to George III of American Revolution fame for historical precedent.

The little Windsor whose birth is expected about the middle of November, will be a second-in-line second-generation heir to the throne.

Fat George, who sent his Redcoats against the American Colonists in 1776, was the last British ruler born under identical circumstances.

Six kings and one queen have ruled in London since the death of George III. Only two of them were second in line at birth and both of these—Edward VII and William IV, were children, not grandchildren, of the reigning monarch.

George III was born during the reign of his grandfather, George II. His father, Frederick Prince of Wales, was the eldest child of the king, just as today Elizabeth is the eldest child of George VI.

But after George III the succession got rather involved.

His immediate successor was his eldest son, George IV who was born two years after the death of George II and therefore was a first-in-line heir.

This fourth George died childless. So one of his brothers, William IV took over. This William had been born second-in-line, all right, but he was a generation nearer the throne than Baby Windsor will be.

Then things got complicated. William had never expected to be king. When it became apparent he would have to, he tried in vain to raise a family. So did his younger brothers. First to succeed was the next in line, Duke of Kent.

So, when William died, the crown passed to a young niece, Alexandrina Victoria. At the time of her birth she was fourth-in-line.

Victoria reigned so long her successors were practically standing in queue.

First in line, the eldest son, became a grandfather before he mounted the throne as Edward VII.

Fate worked it out so that this, pleasant ruler—the jolly king who gave his name to that period known as "Edwardian"—was succeeded by his second son, George

V. Thus another "third-in-line" won the honors. Death had taken the second, his elder brother Prince Albert Victor, Duke of Clarence, eight years before the death of Queen Victoria.

George V was succeeded by his eldest son, the Prince of Wales, who had been born during Victoria's reign and therefore was another "third" in the queue.

Termination of the Prince's brief rule as Edward VIII—he preferred marriage to a throne—brought his younger brother, the present King George VI to the throne. This king had been a fourth-in-line at birth.

Princess Elizabeth, born during the reign of her grandfather, is another third-in-line.

EVERYBODY gets lost once in a while, but that's no consolation to Evelyn Berko, 2, who turns on the tears full blast—with sound effects—after winding up in Detroit police headquarters. Her dog, Whitey, who should have known how to find his way home, shows his complete indifference. Eventually, Evelyn's mom and dad came and claimed the two strays. (International)

Atom Scientists Seeking To Open Plant Secrets

Food Production
Increase Likely
If They Succeed

DURHAM, N. H.—(AP)—Lewis L. Strauss of the atomic energy commission said scientists may soon unravel the secret of plant life.

This secret of how plants grow and produce food has been sought for ages. Some scientists have predicted that if it can be uncovered it may open the way to a tremendous increase in food production.

Strauss said experiments have reached the point where it is almost certain atomic scientists will uncover the secret of how nature produces its food from water, sunlight, carbon dioxide and earth.

"At Antioch College, at the University of California, at the University of Pennsylvania and at California Institute of Technology and a number of other laboratories, groups of researchers are hot upon this trail," he said in a speech prepared for a University of New Hampshire symposium.

Scientists are using materials "tagged" with radioactivity, which are introduced into plants and are followed through each stage of photosynthesis, the process by green plants use sunlight energy to create food material from water and carbon dioxide.

The radioactive elements, unlike those in the natural state, can be traced in each part of the plant by sensitive instruments.

Strauss did not predict how soon a complete solution of this mystery may be expected.

On another aspect of atomic energy, he said it will be a long time before atomic energy is so abundant it will generate the electricity that will make your breakfast toast and coffee.

"It looks rather like a legacy to our children or grandchildren," he added.

Strauss pointed out another possible legacy. He said it is common knowledge that radioactivity sometimes changes in the characteristics that parents, exposed to the rays pass on to their children.

"A fascinating prospect opens, if it ever becomes possible to control these mutants (or changes in characteristics) for undesirable characteristics might be depressed or eliminated and desirable ones fortified, or even produced," he said.

Many experiments have been made on animals and insects and scientists are watching the effects in human beings in Japan, where the atomic bombs were exploded. On the basis of present knowledge, scientists report that a great majority of changes that result are undesirable.

Chinese Superstition Is Hard on Babies

HONG KONG.—(AP)—"One for good measure" turns the tide against death in the family, says an old Chinese superstition among sampan families. When three or four consecutive deaths occur among these seafaring people the next child born is killed. This goes fate one better, the sampaners say, and prevents any further deaths.

This grim custom came to light at a coroner's inquest into the death of a child found floating in Hong Kong Bay recently. "It's murder all the same," said the coroner in passing judgement on the case.

Jefferson Davis, later president of the confederacy, encouraged the importation of camels into the United States in 1855 when he was secretary of war.

Five Combine Hospitalities At Lovely Dinner Bridge

Another beautiful party was added to the autumn social calendar when Mrs. Herbert D. Cockerill, Mrs. Hugh Sollars, Mrs. Albert Peterson, Mrs. Willard Peterson and Mrs. Ralph Whaley extended gracious hospitality at a beautifully appointed dinner bridge Monday evening at the Washington Country Club.

Silver and red were the predominating colors carried out with clever ingenuity in the unusual decorations in the club lounge.

The mantels were banked with silver colored artemisia accented with red geraniums and gladioli, and baskets of gorgeous flame red dahlias and chrysanthemums were also used at vantage points.

Red rosebuds graced the centers of each of the small tables seating the guests for the delicious three course meal served at six thirty.

Nineteen tables of guests were at play during the remainder of the evening in the spirited progressive game which was concluded with the presentation of awards wrapped in silver paper, and tied with fluffy red satin ribbon bows further carrying out the predominating theme of red and silver.

Mrs. Lydia Williams was the holder of high score and received the first prize, Mrs. J. Roush Burton, was presented second, Mrs. Frank Littler, received third while

Bluebird Workers Send Treat to English School

The Cherry Hill Bluebird Workers met at the Cherry Hill School building on Monday evening for the regular meeting with Mrs. Billie Wilson and Mrs. Norris Highfield guardians supervising the meeting, which opened with the playing of the record "Manners Can Be Fun." The business session was called to order by the new president Becky Johnson, and roll call was responded to by thirteen old members and four new members who are Ellen Churchman, Sally Sallettes, Janice Chaney and Mary Lou Deakynne. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and more wash cloths were passed out to them which is a worthy project of the Bluebirds, and the Christmas card sale showed a favorable report.

The meeting was brought to a close and the members filled ten Christmas stockings, bursting to the top with barrettes, ribbon, combs, shampoo, soap, pencils, crayons, various games, toy trucks, ball and jacks and stuffed dolls.

These, with a long carton of candy will be sent to the pupils in Mrs. Nelle Paul's room in an English school. Each girl was given a huge lollipop as a treat following their efficient work.

Sorority Members Have Miss Gullick As Guest Speaker

Thirty members of Gradale Sorority and their advisor Mrs. Edna Woodmansee assembled at the Record Herald club rooms on Monday evening for the regular business meeting. Miss Nita Gullick who was the guest speaker, gave an interesting address on the economic situation in England, as compared to the United States and answered intelligently the several questions asked by the members.

Miss Gullick remained for the meeting which was opened with the Gradale invocation.

Mrs. Neil Helfrich, primus, conducted the business session during which Mrs. Loren Noble reported on the plans for the benefit bridge which is being sponsored by the members Thursday, October 21 at the Dayton Power and Light Company club rooms, and committees were appointed. Mrs. Helfrich also read a list of standing committees for the year.

The next meeting will be a children's Halloween party, Monday, October 25 at the Record-Herald club rooms, with Mrs. Donald Mossberger and Mrs. Joseph M. Herbert composing the committee in charge of arrangements. The meeting was brought to a close with a "Friendship Circle".

Red Blood Cells Must Be Kept Up If You Want To Feel Alive

Thousands Now Regaining Old Time Pep, Vigor and Drive By Releasing Vibrant Energy To Every Muscle, Fibre, Cell

Overwork, undue worry, and lack of certain foods often reduces the red-blood strength—and starved, weak, puny blood just hasn't the power to keep up your energy and drive.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Rent Increases By Landlords Are Discussed

Member of Advisory Board Points Out Important Facts

Stating that they still encounter some landlords who mistakenly feel there is no chance under the federal rent law for them to gain individual rent increases, members of the Washington C. H. rent advisory board issued a statement today emphasizing provisions of the law for rent adjustments and pointing to the willingness of the rent office here to give rent-raise petitions prompt consideration.

"Of special importance in the communities of the Washington C. H. rental area is the short-form substantial hardship petition now authorized for use by owners of four dwelling units or fewer," said Frank Thatcher, advisory board member, speaking for the five-member board.

"This new form provides a streamlined approach to a possible rent increase where higher taxes and fuel prices have been experienced. A landlord saves time and trouble in using the simplified form."

"Moreover, there are 12 other grounds in the law for individual increases. Landlords are advised to consult the rent office about any of these grounds."

In order to qualify for a hardship increase using the new short form, the landlord must show that his expenses for the current year have increased over a prior base period because of higher tax, fuel, utility or insurance costs and that these increases have not been offset by higher rents.

The rent board pointed out that in filing a short form petition the landlord must prove the expense figures listed by him on the form by attaching either receipted bills, or signed statements from tax collectors, fuel dealers, utility companies or insurance agents.

The branch rent office is located at the Washington C. H. Armory is open from 9 A. M. until noon each Wednesday. This hardship petition (D-58A) may also be obtained from Thatcher at his office at 112 North Fayette Street.

Two Full Houses Now in Prospect For 'Best Yet To Come' Wednesday

The people of this community may have been a little lukewarm at the start, if the response to the first two editions of "The Best Yet To Come" is any criterion—but apparently they were convinced and have faith in the title of the monthly series of stage revues, for tickets for the third edition to be presented at the high school auditorium here Wednesday night have been going like hot cakes.

There were a few vacant seats for the first presentation two months ago and not all were filled for the second, last month. Now, two capacity audiences are in prospect for the third edition.

A spokesman for the Park Board said action to terminate the 12-month series would be taken if the response was not greater. He explained that it would be impractical to continue the series if the turnout did not warrant two shows for each edition. The series was booked by the Park Board as a swimming pool fund-raising project and the committee

Kniskley Reunion

The Kniskley reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hisey on Sunday. A bountiful basket dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour and visiting and music provided the afternoon's entertainment. Enjoying the day were: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kniskley, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Kniskley and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Campbell and Mrs. Riddle Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Kniskley, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kniskley, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hisey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hisey, Mrs. Rhoda Steen, all of South Solon.

Birthday Party

Several neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Ethel Shoemaker on Monday evening to help her celebrate her birthday anniversary.

For entertainment the group enjoyed a mock wedding.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held and the bride (Mrs. Shoemaker) opened her lovely gifts. A most enjoyable time was had by all present.

Birthday Surprise

Miss Jo Anne Murry was reminded of her birthday on Monday evening when members of her Sunday School class gathered at her home for an evening of games, contests and visiting. Jo Anne received many nice and useful gifts. Refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, cocoa, birthday cake and fruit salad were served the following: Connie Hyer, Helen Haney, Miss Murry, Dick Smith, Bob Grear, Jack Lansing, Gene Jacobs, Jimmy and Donnie Bob Murry, the teacher Mrs. Clara Theobald and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Murry.

Now, on the eve of the presentation of the third edition, L. M. Hayes, chairman of the Park Board committee has revealed that not only have all of the tickets for the 7 P. M. show been sold in advance, but that also most of these for the second show, to start at 9:30 P. M., have been bought in advance.

Hayes admitted that the committee had used a little more salesmanship, but refuses to let it take most of the credit for the increase in the advance sale. He contends that the variety shows have "sold themselves" with the first two presentations, and that those who saw them have spread the word around. "They were convinced," he believes, "that not only were the first shows all that the press notices promised, but also that the best is yet to come."

While there might be a few seats available for the 7 P. M. show at the door, conviction was expressed that late-comers would be able to get good seats for the 9:30 P. M. show.

Wednesday's third edition of the glorified vaudeville will have Skitch Henderson's "name band" orchestra for the musical background for the 10 acts, all stage-tested successes. A "local talent" number has been included on the bill in accordance with "The Best Is Yet To Come" policy.

The bill for Wednesday night sparkles with the names of such troupers as Little Walter, an international funnyman; Glenn Gregory and Mickey O'Day, ventriloquists; Crewe and O'Conner, a comedy dancing team; Billie Cutler a radio songbird and "Happy" Hall screwball and fast-climbing protégé of Edward G. Robinson of the movies.

Besides Skitch's band, like all of the "big name" bands, has its own entertainers who rate top billing in their own right. Nancy Reed, with talent and beauty, and handsome Andy Roberts, are the featured band's specialty numbers.

Gilbert, Mrs. Geneva Simmermon, Mrs. Emmett Simmermon, Mrs. Clement Simmermon, Mrs. Reynold Slaughter, Jr., Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Martin Staffan, Mrs. Harry Theobald, Lulu Rowand, Mrs. Agnes Belk, Mrs. Hugh Robinson and Jimmy, Mrs. Louise Dorn, Mrs. Pauline Pierce and Mrs. Eldon Brock.

The bill for Wednesday night sparkles with the names of such troupers as Little Walter, an international funnyman; Glenn Gregory and Mickey O'Day, ventriloquists; Crewe and O'Conner, a comedy dancing team; Billie Cutler a radio songbird and "Happy" Hall screwball and fast-climbing protégé of Edward G. I'm All Ready

We will be working right up until the late hours tonight still doing last minute jobs that usually show up . . . but generally speaking, I am all ready for tomorrow . . . the first big day of this ten day selling event.

For the past ten days I have been preparing this store for the sale. A sale of this kind is not just a matter of writing some ads and letting it go at that. No it is more, much more than that.

Long hours are spent in taking an inventory of the entire stock. Then a store has to be arranged to make selling and buying easier. This takes time, and the men who help me in this arrangement will tell you that it's mighty hard work.

Be that as it may, come to my sale at the Briggs Furniture, and I promise you will agree this will be a sale . . . and a real sale.

The Briggs store enjoyed a successful sale last May at the time Mr. Briggs bought out his partner. The response was pleasing to say the least. But now, this sale should far eclipse any past selling event as the reason behind this sale is a matter of necessity . . . and not a matter of choice.

Lions Given Workout For Hillsboro Game

The Lions got a workout with a capital W Monday afternoon at Gardner Park to start preparations for their game with the Indians at Hillsboro Friday night.

Coach Fred Pierson was not exactly happy over their showing against Greenfield's Tigers here last Friday night, although they won it 18 to 0. He thought the score should have been bigger—and said so. More than that, he said the Lions play was ragged. Most of the boys agreed with him. They were disappointed, too—and determined not to let it happen again.

The evening started off with a "skull practice," in which the mistakes made in the Tiger game were gone over without gloves.

Two new plays were added to WHS stock of offensive ammunition, but what they were nobody but the squad knows.

On the field, the workout started with some rugged blocking and tackling, with the emphasis on blocking.

Then the fun began—scrimmage that lasted until the ball no longer could be seen in the dusk. Darkness had settled down and the family supper tables cleared when the boys got home.

But, through it all, the Lions appeared not only to be taking to the rough stuff like ducks to water, but also seemed to be enjoying it if the good natured banter and yelling are any criterion.

First, the regulars started against the reserves. They pushed down the field with consistency.

Then, the first string backfield and second string line was pitted against the first string line and

Competition Keen In Ladies League

There was some keen competition in the Ladies League bowling on the Bowland lanes Monday night although two of the four matches were won with clean sweeps.

The Brown & Brockmeyer girls blanked the Montgomery Warders and the Try-Me Taxis did the same thing to the Mason's Markettes.

Incidentally, the Taxis piled up a 2487 total with the aid of a 132 pin handicap.

The Morris Store girls won two from the Kievers before dropping the last one and the Loudners won the first and last games of their match with the Candy Makers, but dropped the middle tilt.

Canadian Stable Has Three Winners

AURORA, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Winnipeg, Canada, stable of D. R. Hamilton produced three winners last night as grand circuit harness racing opened a two weeks stand at Aurora Downs.

Buddy Direct, paying $4.60, took the second race for Hamilton. Glencarnock Belwin won the fifth, paying $5.60 and Bob Heberling captured the ninth paying $8.80.

Sis Astra, owned by Schaffer and Steiner of Lima, O., and driven by Roy Reigle, won the 17-18 class trot at one mile, a co-feature event.

Three Clean Sweeps On Duck Pin Alleys

Clean sweeps were made by three of the four teams of the Fraternal League in their duck pin matches on the Main Street alleys Monday night.

The Forest Shade Grangers saved themselves from a shutout when they hit 808 to take the last game of their match with the Madison Grangers.

The American Legion, Fayette Grange and Seldon Grange each won all three of their games. The Marshall Grange, Good Hope Grange and Eagles were the victims of the whitewashings.

Their next home game will be Oct. 22 with London.

Sterling Eagles Get High Total

The Mt. Sterling Eagles today were out in front in the Fraternal League after Monday night's 2267 total rolled against the Mt. Sterling Boosters on the Bowland lanes. The Eagles, however, dropped the first game of the three-game match, and that made the Record-Herald crew's 2230, second high for the evening look a little better.

The Record-Herald made a clean sweep of its match with the Universals but that only evened up a whitewash in last week's match.

The Elks won the first and last games from the Rotarians and the Sabina Moose took the first two games from the Country Clubbers before they ran into the high single game score of 815 to lose the finals.

Boudreau Regains Good Will Of Indian Chief Veck with Victory in World Series

BY JOE REICHLER

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Now it can be told.

Lou Boudreau is sitting on top of the world today, manager of Cleveland's first world championship team in 28 years.

Only one month ago, however, the popular playing pilot's position as Tribes boss was very shaky. He was ticketed for other pastures.

Bill Veck, sports-shirted president of the Tribe, had lost faith in Boudreau and his ball club. Greatly disappointed over Cleveland's mid-summer slump which dropped the Indians from first to third place in the space of two weeks, Veck had given up hope of winning the American League flag.

"Only a miracle can help us now," Veck said after the St. Louis Browns had wipped the Indians in Cleveland to drop them four and a half games behind the Boston Red Sox on Sept. 13.

Never a great admirer of Boudreau's managerial talents, Veck had tried to trade the Browns last winter. Cleveland fans, however, came to Lou's rescue, and forced Veck to retain him. Boudreau was even able to wrangle a two-year contract at $55,000 out of Veck.

From a source close to the Cleveland club, it was learned that Veck had made up his mind to make a managerial change after this season. Only a deal for Boudreau would accomplish that since Lou had informed Veck he never would play for the Indians under another skipper.

Happily, all that is forgotten now. Even if the Indians had lost to the Red Sox in the play-off game, Lou would still have been at the helm next year. The gallant fight made by the club against all possible odds during the past month, under Boudreau's fighting and able leadership, caused Veck to change his mind about Harvye, Illinois' gift to baseball.

Although Boudreau played an important part in the Indians' six-game victory over the Boston Braves, it was typical of him yesterday to give most of the credit to his rookie sensation, Gene Bearden. All Lou did was to col-

Notre Dame Second, Northwestern Third

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Unbeaten North Carolina moved to the head of the class today as the country's No. 1 college football team.

The tar heels displaced Notre Dame at the top of the list in the weekly poll of sports writers from coast to coast, conducted by the Associated Press.

Second to Notre Dame by only 10 points in last week's initial balloting, North Carolina jumped to the front as the Irish slipped back to second place, just 20 points behind.

Northwestern clung to the No. 3 spot and Michigan, which meets the Wildcats in an important Big Nine struggle this week, jumped from seventh to fourth.

Less than 100 points separated the first four teams in the tabulation, with a first place voting counting 10 points, second place nine and so on.

The total vote with points figured on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis (first place votes in parenthesis):

|------------------------|-------|
| 1. North Carolina (52) | 1,200 |
| 2. Notre Dame (34) | 1,180 |
| 3. Northwestern (25) | 1,172 |

The second ten—11, Minnesota, 121; 12, Missouri (1), 117; 13, Cornell, 97; 14, Southern Methodist, 74; 15, Clemson, 64; 16, Georgia, 58; 17, Nevada, 44; 18, Duke, 42; 19, Baylor, 41; 20, Oklahoma, 32.

No Provision Made For Brave Star to Get Series Cut

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Marvin Rickert, the Boston Brave who played so brilliantly in left field during the World Series without any financial arrangements, today was certain to share in the player receipts.

Baseball Commissioner Albert B. Chandler said that "justice should be done" in Rickert's case. He said he will have to act unless the players solve the problem.

One solution appears to be for the Braves' players to get together and dig into their own individual shares. The Braves voted 33 shares with each share estimated at $4,652.51. The champion Indians, who voted 34 shares, will receive an estimated $6,772.05.

It is believed that President Lou Prini of the Braves, who has a reputation for being generous with his players, has offered to come through out of his own pocket in Rickert's case. But that is forbidden under baseball law.

Both Montreal and St. Paul are Brooklyn farm clubs.

Oscar Grimes was the hero of the decisive game, played in damp, dreary weather before 11,590 fans. The veteran infielder unloaded the bases with a triple in the sixth inning to set off the winning five-run rally.

Total attendance for the five games was 54,933 and the total receipts were $84,453. Each Royal received $926 for his share of the players' pool.

The odd part about the Rickert story is that the good looking 28-year-old left-handed batter feels very satisfied to have played in the series.

"It's been such a surprise playing in the series," Rickert said. "The Braves have been mighty good to me. I don't expect a thing."

Royals Win Little Series

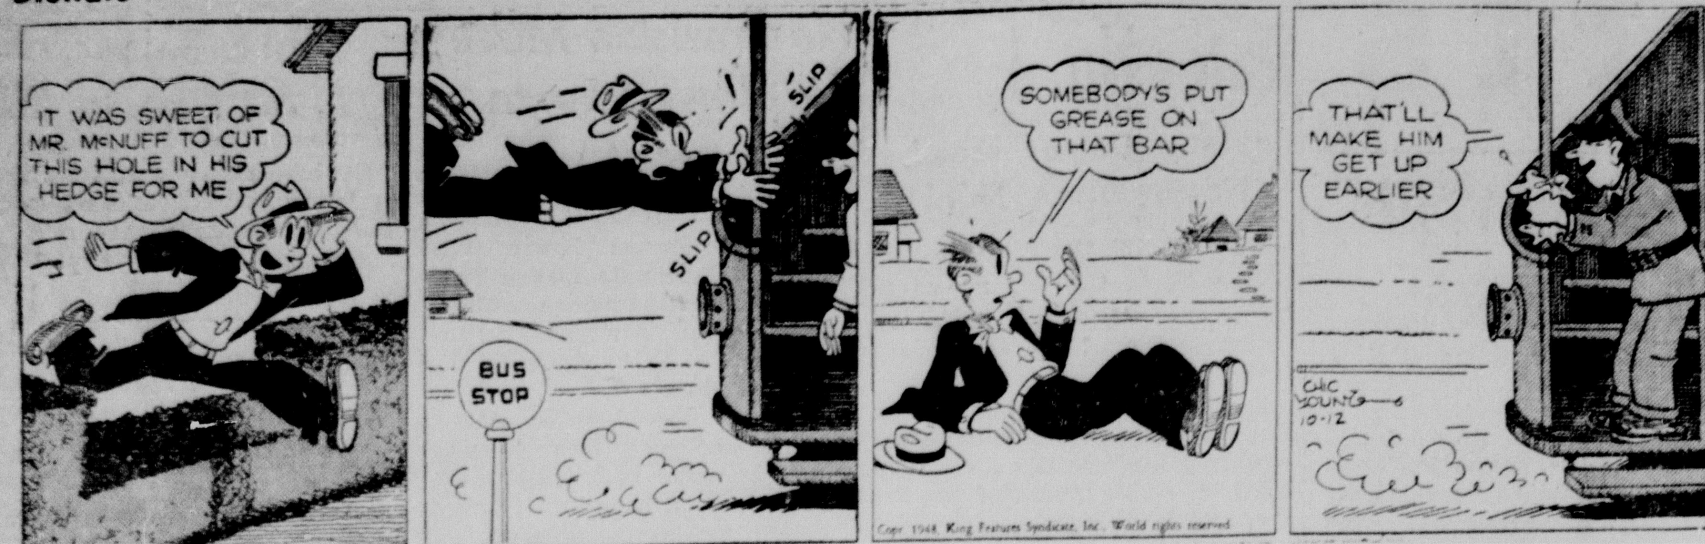

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—(AP)—For the second time in three years the Montreal Royals are little world series champions.

The international league pennant winners clinched the crown yesterday with a 7-2 victory over St. Paul of the American Association.

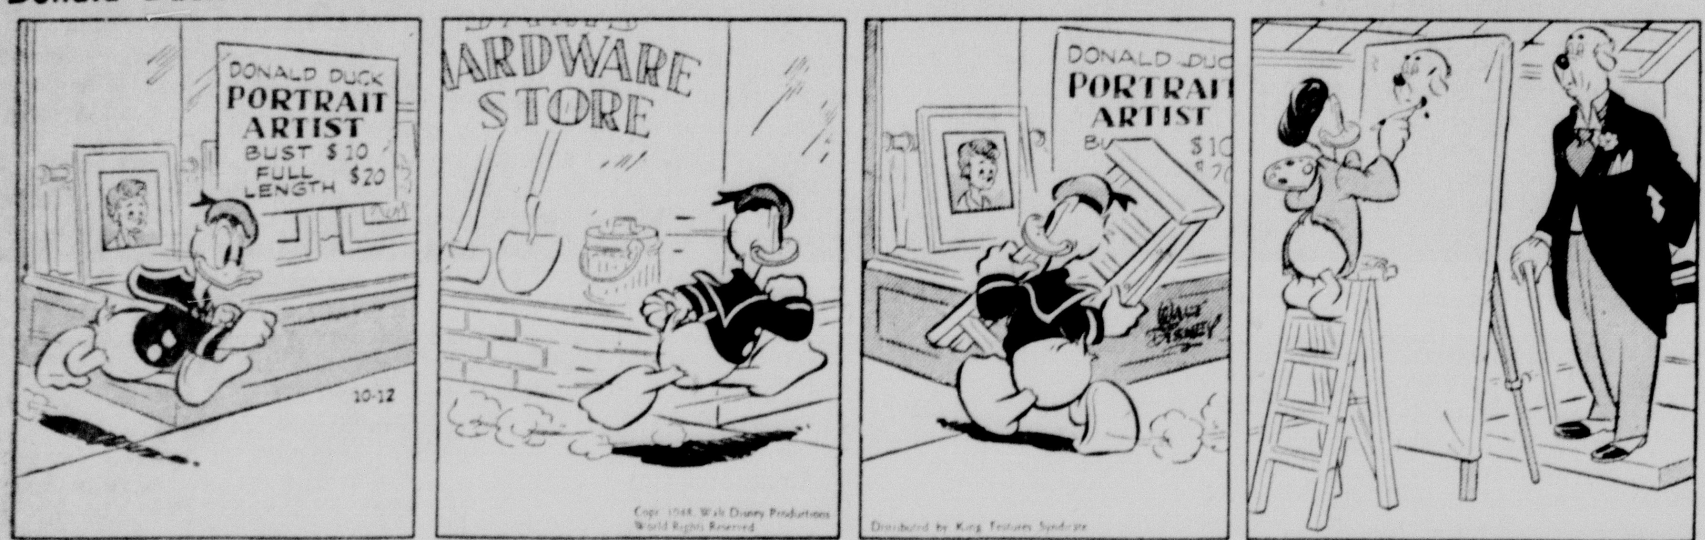

It was their fourth triumph in five games of the best-of-seven series.

It was also the second little series success for Montreal manager Clay Hopper, who guided the Royals when they defeated the Louisville Colonels in 1

Ghost Village Back to Life

Greek Guerrilla War Blamed for 'Death'

By HELEN MAMAS
GANADHIO, Greece—Ganadhio is a ghost village near the height of Kleftis where many Greek lives were lost during the Grammos summer offensive.

Nestled in a mountain valley, the village lies on the bank of the Vorpotos stream, between Yiftisa and Kerasovon.

Some 150 peace-loving Greek peasants once inhabited Ganadhio. There were 60 houses, and a little church. There were well-cultivated wheat fields and prolific vineyards.

It was a happy village before Markos imposed Red law in this and more than 100 other Grammos villages. Shortly after the guerrillas rose in rebellion against the Greek government two years ago, the Communists entered Ganadhio.

Seventy-year-old Papachristodoulou, the village priest, who was a nationalist, defied Communist threats on his life to stay "with my church and sheep."

Before the Grammos operation, the guerrillas removed the majority of the villagers, their children and cattle, into Albania, the priest says. Papachristodoulou managed to stay in the village with the few remaining people.

But when the Communists began to hear the cannon of the approaching Greek artillery, they forcibly evacuated everyone.

While the village was being abandoned, Papachristodoulou hid in a trunk. "I stayed alone in the village, in a deserted mud hut, eating corn, and waiting for the national troops," he says.

Ganadhio was heavily bombarded by the Greek army. Three shells struck Papachristodoulou's house. When advance units of the Greek army entered Ganadhio, they spotted Papachristodoulou approaching, with cross in hand, from his church.

Life is starting again in Ganadhio—but reviving this ghost village is difficult, the priest says.

"We have no water, no wheat, because no one controls the stream or cultivates the fields," he explains. "The vineyards are dry. But I cannot abandon my church, the bells, and this piece of Greek soil I love so much."

Operation Danger Eased by Device

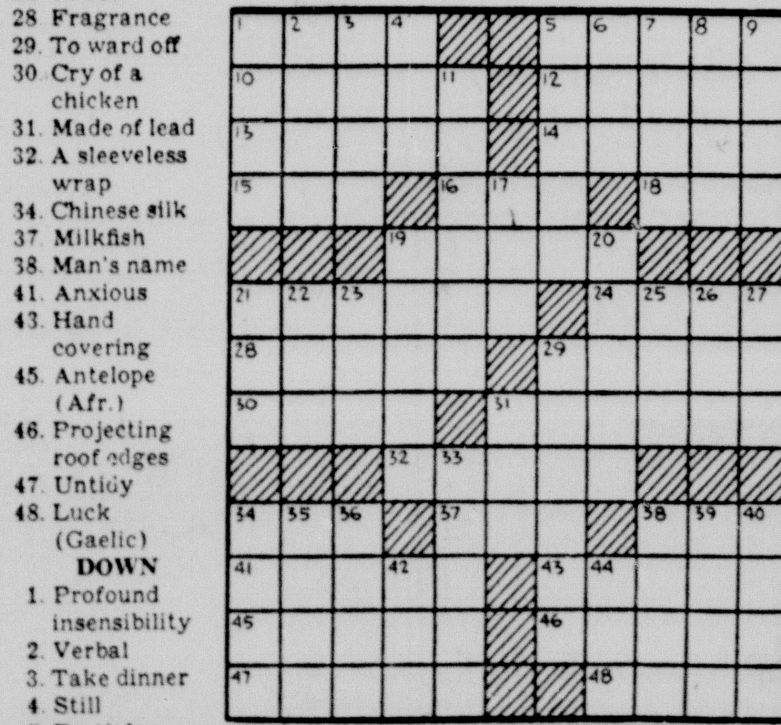

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania research laboratories has announced development of a blood pressure measuring device designed to lessen the danger of heart failure and shock to patients in the operation room.

The announcement yesterday said "the new method is seeing rather than listening," and added that it makes it possible for surgeons "to institute more swiftly corrective measures which safeguard the life of the patient."

MARRY for MONEY
by Faith Baldwin

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

GAIL LAUGHED outright at Alexandria's idea of her interests. She said, "Come, Mrs. Spencer, you've been reading books and gossip columns." She could have sworn that she saw the old woman's backbone stiffen visibly. "Like most young people I enjoy dancing, good restaurants, the theater . . . and, now and then, a night club. As a matter of fact, in my job, I have to be seen in the so-called right places, every so often. It's part of the picture. But that doesn't mean that I couldn't settle down to an orderly home life."

Millicent choked slightly and Mrs. Spencer said sharply: "You have admitted that you do not love my grandson. Are you trying to tell me that, if he asked you to marry him, you would not?"

"He has asked me, Mrs. Spencer."

Alexandria was white under the film of powder, the very sparing dusting of rouge. She said, "And . . ."

"I haven't accepted," said Gail, "and I haven't refused. We have an agreement . . . Brad suggested that we be engaged to be engaged . . . until spring."

"You know, of course, that I shall repeat this fantastic conversation to Bradford?"

"Oh, yes," Gail said, "but it isn't necessary. He knows that I'm not in love with him."

Alexandria received the blow, and rallied. She said, "Then he's more of a fool than I've ever believed. Or do you expect to fall in love with him—by spring?"

"No," said Gail evenly, "but I like him very much. I have never liked or respected any man as much. We have a good time, we like being together. He interests me, very much. I admire his standards, his way of life, and his work. I don't understand his work, of course, and sometimes I don't understand him. But given intelligence—" she paused and added—"you were kind enough to say you thought me intelligent, perhaps I could grow into understanding."

Millicent said suddenly, "I beg your pardon?" rose and fled from the room. It was a brave thing to do as she had never departed from Alexandria's presence without direct, or implied, permission. But she told herself, I simply cannot endure it; our poor boy, she thought, running up the beautiful stairs, which was that, for once, Alexandria had met a worthy, however mistaken, adversary. Millicent reached her room and in its virgin shelter, sat down upon her bed. She said aloud, "I shall warn him, it is my duty!"

Alexandria cast a slightly astonished glance after the small form of her deserting companion. She waved her hand toward a silver box on a table near the couch.

"Not at all. One more thing. Alexandria cast a slightly astonished glance after the small form of her deserting companion. She waved her hand toward a silver box on a table near the couch."

and asked, austere, "Do you smoke?"

"Occasionally, thank you." This was one of the occasions. Gail took a cigarette and set the match flame to its tip. She needed a cigarette at this juncture and it was one of the rare moments when she felt that she could do with a drink as well.

Alexandria expressed no disapproval, for if she had, it might have been mentioned to Brad, and Brad, no doubt, would inform the girl that his grandmother had indulged in a postprandial cigarette long before it was de rigueur for gentlemen; only, of course, in the privacy of her home or the homes of close friends; never in public and mainly because, at the time she acquired the habit, her husband had been immensely amused. But she hadn't smoked for several years, upon the advice of her doctors.

Gail smoked quietly, and waited. And Alexandria asked: "Do you intend to marry my grandson?"

"I don't know," Gail said. She looked through the veil of smoke at the older woman. "I would be foolish not to, wouldn't I?" she inquired. "As, surely, I shall never again meet anyone as eligible!"

"Very well," said Alexandria shortly, "so you'll marry for money. Have you considered how unfair it would be to Bradford?"

"Yes. That is why," Gail murmured, "it seems best not to take any further steps. But I would make him a good wife," she added firmly, "undemanding, affectionate and . . . faithful."

"An old-fashioned term, these days," said Alexandria, unmoved. "But does he not deserve more?"

"Who has more?" asked Gail. "Most men have less. They may start out with a violent—" she hesitated, used the quieter term, "attraction, on both sides. But the marriages that last—didn't you say they are based on more than that?"

"Certainly not," said Alexandria, vigorously and mendaciously. This dreadful girl had an accurate memory. "A man who gives his entire heart deserves one in return. The original attraction does not pass with the years, it merely becomes, as you phrase it, less violent and finds compensations."

Gail asked, "Why not start with the compensations . . . respect for each other as individuals, shared tastes, and family interests?"

Alexandria flushed deeply, her sensitive, lined skin suffused with color. She repeated faintly, "Family?"

"Naturally," said Gail, "all things being equal. Did you expect that I would not fulfill my share of marriage, if possible?"

The flush subsided and Gail's heart misgave her. This was her enemy but she was old and frail. She added gently, "I am tiring you, Mrs. Spencer."

"Not at all. One more thing. Alexandria cast a slightly astonished glance after the small form of her deserting companion. She waved her hand toward a silver box on a table near the couch."

Have you considered that you would not be fair to yourself? You might fall in love with someone else, when it was too late. Or do you subscribe to the theory that it is never too late, that you can indulge yourself within marriage, or, as young people do, terminate your marriage whenever the mood seizes you?"

"Anyone," said Gail, "who marries, thinking, if it doesn't work, I can get out of it, never meant it to work in the first place. I would mean it to, Mrs. Spencer. And I am not liable to fall in love. She folded her lips together in the manner that Alexandria had observed, earlier in the afternoon.

"Why," asked Alexandria, "should you be immune?"

"For a number of reasons."

Mrs. Spencer rose, and Gail came to her feet, in one flowing easy motion. And Alexandria said, "I must warn you that I shall repeat our conversation to my grandson."

"Of course," said Gail. She did not offer her hand nor did Alexandria. They stood facing each other for a moment, the girl so much taller, so alive with youth, and Alexandria felt as if her hoarded vitality had been sapped from her. She made a curious little gesture with one hand, one of dismissal and of bereavement as well.

And presently the door, with its beautiful iron grille, closed quietly behind Gail by Andrews' hands, and she stood a moment on the steps. The rain had ceased, but still threatened. The park was ghostly in the dusk, the street lights came piercing through the ground mist rose in lazy swirls of fog, vague and obscuring.

She felt chilled, and shivered. She wished Sam were here beside her, that they might go together somewhere gay and warm, loud with crazy music and the sound of voices. She wished she might tell him all that had been said this afternoon. She thought, It's not for me . . . I'll turn and ring the doorknob and ask that grim old man to let me in. I'll go back into that room and say I didn't mean it, don't worry, I won't see Brad again.

No. She had made a bargain and she would stick to it, and when she reached the flat, which was empty and dreary, when she unpinned the fading violets from her jacket, there was a Western Union message at the door, and a wire from Brad.

CALLING YOU TONIGHT ABOUT ELEVEN, IT READ, HOW DID THINGS GO WHAT YOU NEED IS A GOOD STIFF DRINK ALL MY LOVE, BRAD.

She laughed aloud, standing there with the yellow paper in her hand and looking toward the clock on the desk. It was always fast, that being the safer way in this household, but Brad had timed his telegram very neatly.

The navy announced today that the submarine Tigrone, taken from the reserve fleet and converted into the first radar picket submarine, will be commissioned November 1. The Tigrone had varied service during World War II, including the rescue of 52 downed aviators from enemy waters and the bombardment of Japanese shore targets.

It is believed that the slow tilting upward of the northern shores of the Great Lakes may, a few thousand years hence, cause four of the lakes (except Huron) to drain southward into the Mississippi River.

DIVORCE SUIT

Pauline Miller, on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, has filed her petition in common pleas court, asking for divorce from Ernest Miller, to whom she was married Oct. 6, 1941. The parties have two children, custody of whom is asked by the plaintiff, together with other relief. Clark Wickensimer is attorney for the plaintiff.

CASE DISMISSED

The divorce action of Forrest Satterfield against Irene Satterfield, has been dismissed upon application of the plaintiff, at costs of the plaintiff.

PARTITION SUIT

A suit for the partition of 254.17 acres of land in Jefferson Township and for an accounting, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Cordelia R. Armstrong, who makes Robert R. Armstrong, Mabel C. Rankin, Florence R. Ferdon and Gladys Armstrong, defendants. Clark Wickensimer represents the plaintiff.

The plaintiff claims 1-3 interest in the estate, and the petition states that 1-3 interest belongs to Florence R. Ferdon and 1-2 interest is owned by Mabel C. Rankin. It is stated that on October 28, 1947, Mabel C. Rankin executed a deed to Robert R. Armstrong giving him 1-3 interest in the estate with certain reservations, which are unknown to the plaintiff.

In a second cause of action in the petition, the plaintiff states that the defendant, Robert R. Armstrong has occupied the estate since Feb. 1, 1932, without any lease and profit agreement, paying the plaintiff $245 per acre per year for her interest, which she claims was reasonably worth $15 per acre each year. Plaintiff asks that the defendant, Robert R. Armstrong, be required to account for receipts and profits and that the plaintiff recover for her share of the rents and profits the sum of $16,900. Also for other relief.

$400 Voted For Instruments

County Band Boosters Set Aside Funds

County Band Boosters met Monday evening and decided to allot $100 to each high school, in all $400 for the purchase of band instruments.

Roland Chase, County Band leader was appointed to meet with each school board at its next meeting as a consultant on instruments needed by the band. School boards are expected to make up the difference in what is spent beyond $100.

Ways and means of making money also were discussed at the meeting in superintendent William J. Hilty's office.

Chase explained the new county band practice arrangements which involve one rehearsal of the combined band per week in Memorial Hall.

A county-wide skating party at the roller rink at the earliest opportunity was decided upon by the group and Gordon Cowdrey, Superintendent Carl Boring and Superintendent Milford Barker were chosen to make the arrangements.

Tickets for this party will be sold through the schools, it was decided and a percentage of the receipts will go to the band boosters' treasury. Other ways and means of making money for the group were discussed but no further action was taken on them.
